Message from Country Director

"It is with mixed feelings that I sit down to write the introduction to our Annual Report."

For sure I'm thankful and proud for the work done in 2015, but also concerned because so much more is needed in this country. When I see so many people living in dangerous environments, where the sea is invading and destroying the villages. When I see the price of food going up, bringing more challenges to the families already in financial difficulties. There are many needs but scarcity of resources.

There is a hope for things getting better. We need to go ahead believing that more people will come to help to mitigate all the needs, and it is always much better to do something than nothing.

I want to thank each ADRA staff, volunteer, the board, donor, and beneficiary for the work done in 2015.

ADRA Indonesia comprises of a committed staff, which with the support of its stakeholders are working hard to make a positive impact in the life of thousands in this country. The demand for our work is enormous, with the challenge we face, there is need to be increasingly efficient and effective, but also creative.

I am deeply grateful to all of you for your profound commitment to our agency. I ask that you all continue to offer your time, effort, advice, and support to ADRA Indonesia, so this organization can move forward. Remember, we are all in this together for a common good.

*Paulo Lutke
Country Director of ADRA Indonesia*

The Nutrition Post is for the children under-five who statistically are falling in below yellow and red ribbons. After two months of implementation, there was a significant improvement among the children, the growth in terms of body weight and attitude changes of the members of Nutrition Post. According to the weighing measurement results in August, there were four children under-five achieved the green ribbon on the KMS (Health Achievement Card) and no more children registered in the red lines (which in the previous month there were listed at least three children).

The actions were closely monitored to prevent fall back of status into yellow and red. Upon observation to the betterment of program in Nutrition Post and Behavioral Changes of the members, ADRA Indonesia field team interviewed some members' parents. The result revealed that the program was very effective for the mothers to improve the body weight of their children. The mothers become more caring in feeding their children and in improving their sanitation and health.

Building Hope for Better Future

Improving Nutritional Status of the Indigenous Community Toddlers (INSTINCT) Project in Gorontalo, aims to alleviate malnutrition problems in children under-five through revitalization of Integrated Service Posts (Posyandu) in the villages and implementation of Positive Deviance approach for child nutrition rehabilitation. ADRA trained health staff from the Community Health Centre (CHC), the Posyandu cadres and community leaders to apply the Positive Deviance approach in order to identify and disseminate best-practices to prevent and revert malnutrition in children. Through a diligent process of analyzing Posyandu data, ADRA and the local stakeholders identified families who successfully keep their children well-nourished despite of their economic constraints (they were named as Positive Deviant families).

Supported by ADRA's technical assistances, the local stakeholders visited the Positive Deviant families and made observations on their daily practices - particularly those that related to child feeding and rearing - to discover key-practices that enable those relatively poor families keeping their children healthy and well-nourished (namely Positive Deviant practices). The CHC staffs, Posyandu cadres and community leaders were then designed activities in Pos Gizi/Nutrition Post to promote and help other families adopting the Positive Deviant practices.

CHAIN OF CHANGES

Salwa was four years old, when her mother - Mrs. Nova (24 years) - was invited to attend Nutrition Post/Pos Gizi in Hutuo Village, Limboto Sub-district. Mrs. Nova and her two children - Salwa and Salva (9 months) - share a house with Mrs. Nova's in-law and their five children. Salwa's father works as an assistant in an internet rental-shop in the nearby city, and therefore is rarely at home.

Before attending Pos Gizi, Salwa was very thin for her age. Her weight was stagnant at 11 kilograms, less than 80% of normal weight of a four year old child. She was so weak that she could not stand-up by herself and be playful like other children. It was very difficult to feed Salwa because she was a very picky eater and prefer processed-snacks such as salty-chips and fried food bought from the local food-vendors. Health staff from Limboto Community Health Centre/CHC (Puskesmas) invited Mrs. Nova to attend the 12-days Pos Gizi course to learn together with other mothers how to overcome Salwa's eating problems.

Mrs. Nova feels much benefited from attending Pos Gizi. She received information about child care that she wanted to know. She also learned how to train children in hygiene practices (such as brush-teeth and hand-washing), to prepare healthy food for children with limited spending, and to deal with children's refusal to eat. Since her enrollment in Pos Gizi, Salwa's eating behaviors have gradually improved. Salwa now eats 3-4 times a day, while she used to eat only once or twice before Pos Gizi. She also shows more interest to eat food that prepared by her mother and less of the commercially available chips or fried food. Salwa gained 1 kilogram in the 12-days course of Pos Gizi. She continues to gain weight as she eats better now. Salwa physical condition also improved as she now can walk and be as playful as the other children of her age. "She used to barely walk, but now she can even swim," said Mrs. Nova about the most significant change on Salwa resulted from her enrollment in Pos Gizi.

Mrs. Nova is very proud with Salwa's achievements and became motivated to help other mothers with malnourished children. She described, "many children in this neighborhood are suffering from malnutrition because of parents' lack of knowledge about good nutrition for children." Mrs. Nova encourages her peer-mothers to attend the next course of Pos Gizi in Hutuo Village, while she herself is willing to help running the Pos Gizi. INSTINCT Project's Pos Gizi has not only brought a golden opportunity for children like Salwa to grow healthier, but also developed confidence in humble-mothers like Mrs. Nova that she could also help the other families to alter their child's health and nutritional status, and therefore the chain of change is created.

Building Hope with Care

Increasing Nutritional Status of the Under-Five (INSUF), is a project initiated by ADRA Indonesia in Bantar Gebang to alleviate malnutrition problems in children under-five. Through INSUF Project, ADRA Indonesia conducted School and Supplementary Feeding Programme and also "Mobile Posyandu/Integrated Service Post.

Supplementary Feeding Programme was conducted twice a week in Sumur Batu and Ciketing Udik village. ADRA taught the mothers how to prepare nutritious food for their children. With the assistance and supervision from ADRA, the mothers cooked and prepared supplementary food for the children under-five themselves. This program helped boost the children's appetite on the supplementary feeding day because of the company of their friends. It brought good result on weight gain and their health. It was a success program with around 150 children were helped.

ADRA also built "Mobile Posyandu" in both villages. ADRA brought the Posyandu closer to the people's homes which aims to help the people take up Posyandu's services. Along with Posyandu cadres, we motivated more people to come to Posyandu. There, the people are provided with services, such as : pregnancy monitoring, health and nutrition counseling and immunization and vitamins to infants.

STEPS OF CHANGE

Mai* is a two year-old-child who lives in Bantar Gebang with her mother, aunts, uncles and grandparents. Mai is one of ADRA Indonesia INSUF's beneficiary. When ADRA first came, Mai weighed only 8,6kg and her nutrition status was very poor. She would easily get ill and was continuously suffering from diarrhea.

Mai's bad health was mainly due to poor hygiene, improper and malnutritional diet, eating leftover food, not being taken to doctor and most of all because of her mother's lack of knowledge on health, hygiene and sanitation.

ADRA through INSUF Project conducted Supplementary Feeding Program twice a week and Mobile Integrated Service Post (Posyandu) once a month for Mai and other children.

After joining ADRA INSUF project, Mai and her mother have benefited in many ways. Mai now weighs a healthy 10,1 kg's and her mother is now more aware of nutritional diet and also regularly takes Mai to Posyandu. Mai's nutritional status is good now.

ADRA Indonesia is proud and blessed to make a difference and help Mai. Changing one life at a time, we hopefully will one day make a change for all.

Building Hope with Plants

Since 1990, most of the land for agriculture in Bantar Gebang has been converted into a place for trash disposal. Most of the families, who previously were farmers, with no land left, have turned their life towards more difficult situations to sustain their livelihood. The soil which is approximately around the trash disposal has been contaminated by water and leachate, making the families least interested to plant agriculture in their garden or backyards.

ADRA Indonesia through Urban Agriculture Project (UAP), aims to provide a source of nutritious food to at least 250 families in Bantar Gebang through vertical agricultures. The main activities of this project are to train mothers to grow vegetables and learn aquaponic system as a promising alternative.

After few months and perspiration of the people of Bantar Gebang, ADRA Indonesia finally achieved the aims to provide nutritional resources for 256 families in Sumur Batu and Ciketing Udik villages. The home gardens built at people's houses, has benefitted them in many ways; they get vegetables resources at home, and consume it for their daily food needs.

Practicing this agriculture project with urban community, which directly supports poor families nutrition, is a valuable experience for ADRA Indonesia since we have an ambition to help urban poor families through agriculture projects.

Urban Agriculture Project News

ADRA Indonesia conducted UAP training with the support from Bekasi Berkebun and BPTP (Balai Pengkajian Teknologi Pertanian)/ Agriculture Technology's Institute. The mothers of Bantar Gebang were taught the whole nine yards of gardening. Starting from the elements of planting, the definition of seeds, how to plant the seeds, and everything about gardening. They also got practical demonstration and the chance to try practically what they had learned.

Besides building home gardens for the families, ADRA Indonesia also taught to build Aquaponics system, where the families can cultivate fish and plant vegetable seeds for the family nutrition, especially the families with the under-five children. It was built within group consisted of around 10 families. The people shared the fishes and vegetables with each other and even sold it. The aquaponics was a way to give the people a healthy as well as sustainable life.

With the support from the volunteers of General Electric (GE) Indonesia, ADRA Indonesia along with GE volunteers successfully conducted a voluntary work in Bantar Gebang. With the participations of around 30 people, they did a marvelous job. They built vegetable shelves for families' home gardens, painted Posyandu, and built aquaponics system for the people of Bantar Gebang.

Sriwedari (Self-Reliance Initiatives of Women in Economic Development and resilience Intensification) project that ADRA Indonesia started in Cemara Jaya Village, Karawang, since March 2014 has come to an end on February 2015 with a successful story.

There are hundreds of families that depend on fishing for a source of income in Cemara Jaya village. However, the fisherman and their families increasingly feel the impact of climate change. The increasing frequency of erratic weather changes and storms damage their homes and huts, made them unable to catch fish. These were the reasons of Sriwedari Project, which aims to empower women and develop economic of the people in Cemara Jaya village.

ADRA Indonesia along with the local women in Cemara Jaya village organized themselves into groups of women to build a business that increases the sale value of fish. ADRA Indonesia facilitated them to organize, analyze the economic potential of their village and design businesses that can increase their family income. "Koperasi Bintang Bahari" has finally been realized.

In the year of 2015 the exhibition of "Karawang Development Expo" was held with the cooperation of Department of Fisheries and Maritime Affairs. Its aim was to show and promote the development of the local area, Karawang, through small and medium enterprises that the local people do.

The women of Cemara Jaya along with their Koperasi Bintang Bahari also attended the Exhibition. They sold their own products from milkfish, such as fish nugget, fish ball and fishcake.

Attending Karawang Development Expo 2015, brings the proof that the women and their Koperasi Bintang Bahari is a major success and it has paved a path for the secure future of Cemara Jaya people.
